DOING THE IMPOSSIBLE

PragerU

Message from MARISSA STREIT

CEO of PragerU

Dear PragerU Family,

When PragerU began 16 years ago, not many imagined we would one day be in a position to revolutionize education in America. But through perseverance, technology, your support, and above all, God's blessing, something once thought impossible is about to become reality.

And isn't that the story of PragerU? What we imagined, and what we were told couldn't be done, we have, in fact, achieved. It's also the story of America. Tell Americans something can't be done, that it's impossible, and we will find a way. It's because we trust "with God all things are possible."

Today, there is a great lack of trust in the future, in each other, and in God. The rise of new technologies has left many around us living in fear rather than in faith. Innovation has always intimidated mankind, but history teaches us technology can also be used to serve humanity and do good.

Think of the fear surrounding the printing press, a new technology in the 15th century. Many then thought the idea of mass-produced Bibles was impossible. Think also of the Industrial Revolution of the 18th century. Many feared the collapse of economies. Think now of today's artificial intelligence revolution.

History demonstrates achieving the "impossible" often requires innovation, technology, and a willingness to do something different.

Americans of all ages need the impossible in education. The education-industrial complex—a collusion of politicians, bureaucrats, teachers' unions, and textbook publishers—has long controlled where, how, and what students learn. And families are told there is no other possibility in education.

Provide an alternative to Scholastic, the publishing giant behind woke children's books and school book fairs? Impossible!

Compete against PBS, taxpayer-funded educational broadcasting? Impossible!

Use social media to bring people closer to God and country? Impossible!

Create college courses for accredited universities? IMPOSSIBLE!!!

Turn around America's 250th birthday—one the left had envisioned as a commemoration of national shame, ingratitude for our past, and calls for the radical transformation of America? Impossible!

PragerU is doing the impossible.
BECAUSE WE MUST!

We built the infrastructure to reach a growing audience of almost 30 million unique visitors every year who need an "impossible" alternative to the education-industrial complex.

PragerU has already proven millions of people are hungry for what is good and true. Our videos communicate timeless virtues and historical facts in compelling, relevant, accessible, and entertaining ways. We endure attacks, censorship, lawsuits, and tired attempts to deny the truth of our content.

That's because we know how to fight the education-industrial complex and be a real threat to its stranglehold on student learning across the country.

PragerU is already an alternative educational ecosystem for America's students of all ages: videos, books, toolkits, standards-aligned "crosswalks," and college-credit courses.

Now, PragerU is using new technologies, including AI, as powerful tools for student achievement and for American victory. PragerU and technology together will empower parents and educators to create customized lesson plans drawing from PragerU's massive content library.

It will look like this: Just ask our chatbot how to teach a sixth grader about the American Revolution, and in a matter of seconds, a lesson plan appears. Or ask for an engaging, step-by-step guide to teaching your first grader how to read. PragerU content you trust, and resources you didn't even know you needed, are suddenly at your fingertips.

> "Something once thought impossible is about to become reality."

Consider how big this is! In a few short years, education in America will look dramatically different, thanks to innovators like PragerU. Finally, the education-industrial complex will be pierced.

Children and adults of all ages will have direct access to the truth about history, literacy, civics, economics, and much more than they might learn in government schools. Parents do not need an education degree to reclaim responsibility for their children's education. Parents are their child's "first teachers," after all. And educators should not have to navigate layers of budgets and bureaucracy to teach what their students need. The path of least resistance must lead to something good and true.

PragerU is that path. We teach what has always been true by using the technology of today to save our future.

This is bigger than PragerU. Our future is 100% dependent on what our children learn and believe, because they will be the ones living it.

Education is upstream from culture.

PragerU has assembled the audience, technology, trust, partnerships, and momentum to be a true competitor to the education-industrial complex. Not simply by criticizing "the system" or by sitting in an "ivory tower." We are in libraries, classrooms, homes, and on millions of tablets and phones. We have proven it is POSSIBLE TO WIN THE BATTLE OF EDUCATION.

I invite you to be part of this extraordinary opportunity.

With gratitude,

Marissa Streit

Message from DENNIS PRAGER

Co-Founder of PragerU

Dear PragerU Family,

Many of you know my life changed in an instant on November 12, 2024.

I fell in my home and became paralyzed from the shoulders down. The prognosis was devastating. Doctors told me I would probably not survive. Nurses insisted I would never breathe without a ventilator. Therapists told me I would never speak normally again, let alone return to the work I love.

Well, here I am.

I am breathing on my own. I am speaking. I completed another book, which became a New York Times bestseller, If There Is No God: The Battle Over Who Defines Good and Evil. I am working on the fifth volume of The Rational Bible. And I am once again recording podcasts for PragerU.

Every doctor who treats me uses the word "miraculous" to describe my progress.

There is a lesson here that applies to everything we are doing at PragerU: Never accept defeat. Never assume that what seems impossible today will remain impossible tomorrow.

I have spent much of my life thinking and writing about happiness, suffering, and gratitude. More than 30 years ago, I developed an equation: Unhappiness equals image minus reality. The greater the gap between the life you imagined and your actual circumstances, the greater your unhappiness. You must either change your reality or change your image of what your life should be.

For now, I am changing my image.

I have never believed faith in God guarantees protection from tragedy. Why should I abandon my belief in God because something terrible happened to me? So many others have suffered far worse.

I can focus on what I have lost and become depressed, or be grateful for what I still have and continue doing as much good as possible.

That is what my recovery has taught me about the impossible. We cannot always control our circumstances, but we can refuse to let those circumstances determine whether we continue doing good.

And that same spirit has guided PragerU from the beginning.

When we started, people told us we couldn't compete with the enormous institutions shaping what Americans learn and believe. We didn't have their money or their infrastructure. We were told that changing American education was impossible.

But we had something they underestimated: good ideas, biblical values, a determination to share them, and a willingness to embrace new technology.

Today, PragerU reaches millions of people every single day. What began as one 5-Minute Video a week has grown into an extraordinary educational enterprise producing videos, children's shows, books, lesson plans, college-credit courses, and even museum exhibits.

Just as I was told that my life as I knew it was over, PragerU was told the education "system" was too powerful to challenge. Yet here I am, still speaking and writing—and here is PragerU, growing and reaching more Americans than ever.

And PragerU is now attempting something even greater.

Using cutting-edge innovations, including artificial intelligence, PragerU is working to accomplish what I could once only dream of: bringing timeless truths, goodness, and American values directly to millions of people, bypassing the institutions that have long controlled what young Americans learn.

It is becoming a genuine educational alternative, empowering parents, teachers, and students with the knowledge and values they need and deserve.

There will always be people who tell us it cannot be done. That the opposition is too powerful. That the obstacles are too great.

I have heard those words before.

"My recovery reminds me the impossible can become possible."

We should never despair.

I do not know how much more physical progress I will make. But I do know that I intend to continue doing as much good as I possibly can. And I know that PragerU must do the same.

Because the stakes are too high to surrender, and the future of our children is too important to accept that meaningful change is impossible.

I am profoundly grateful to God, to my extraordinary wife, Sue, to my dedicated sons, and to the incredible people who have supported me throughout this journey.

And I am deeply grateful to you for making PragerU's work possible.

My recovery reminds me the impossible can become possible. PragerU reminds me why we must never stop trying.

Together, we will continue doing the impossible.

With gratitude,

Dennis Prager

DOING THE IMPOSSIBLE

Many of life's greatest moments were initially "impossible." Untold. Unimaginable. When PragerU co-founder Dennis Prager fell and became paralyzed, many so-called experts told Dennis and all of us he would die. It would be "impossible" for him to speak again. And if the merchants of impossibility are proven wrong, the "impossible" is now called "miraculous." But PragerU believes in miracles and in doing the impossible. We trust in God and imagine what can be.

Today, technology, particularly artificial intelligence, presents opportunities to accomplish what once seemed unimaginable: using innovation to make the truth more accessible, to empower parents and educators, and to inspire students to do the impossible themselves. Artificial intelligence demonstrates what was once thought impossible is now reality. America's students cannot afford to wait for another opportunity because this one is too dangerous—evil, even.

But when guided by wisdom, faith, and a commitment to serving others, technology becomes more than a tool; it becomes a means of opening doors, opening minds, overcoming barriers, and transforming lives. If we have faith in God's divine providence, if we muster courage to persevere as Dennis does, and if we discern how to put exciting and powerful innovations to good use, together we can do the impossible.

Socialism 101: This course equips millions of Americans with the truth about socialism—its promises, failures, and real-world consequences. In seven 5-Minute Videos, economists, historians, and people who have lived under socialism explain the difference between what socialism promises and what it produces.

Capitalism 101: Only 39 percent of Americans aged 18–29 support capitalism. Yet free markets have given us so much—cars, coffee, computers—and lifted billions out of poverty. In thirteen 5-Minute Videos, leading economists, scholars, CEOs, and policy experts explain the ideas, principles, and innovations behind capitalism, and how to explain and defend it with confidence.

Israel and Middle East 101: The Middle East is one of the most volatile and misunderstood regions in the world—and no country is more central to that story than Israel. This course covers the facts about Israel, its history, and the forces shaping the region today.

Political Science 101: This course covers the basics of American politics: the differences between the left and the right, what it means to be conservative, how a liberal differs from a leftist, the role of the Electoral College, and how much influence big corporations have over our government.

Immigration 101: Immigration is one of the most debated issues in America—and one of the most misunderstood. This course covers its history, law, and impact.

Islam 101: An unfiltered look at the world's second-largest religion, exploring the beliefs, ideas, and movements shaping the Muslim world today.

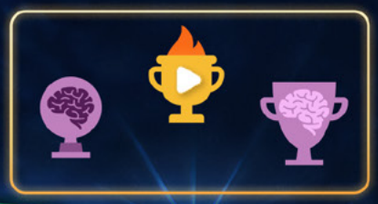

SPOTLIGHT: NEW FATHER'S DAY AD!

More than 4 million Americans saw our new "Thank you, Dad!" ad on FOX and on YouTube. It shows how strong fathers don't just shape their families—they can change the world as leaders, teachers, protectors, and as role models.

"IMPOSSIBLE!"

PRAGERU KIDS BOOK FAIRS ARE NOW IN

38 STATES AND COUNTING

We began working on our first book during the COVID lockdowns. Today, PragerU offers books for all ages. Parents and educators can now supplement our signature video content with high-quality, wholesome, fun books that reflect their values.

Many of these books are now featured in PragerU Kids Book Fairs. Scholastic nearly monopolizes books for students, and much of the content doesn't align with many parents' values. We launched our own book fair display to provide families an alternative they can trust. Kids Book Fairs are already in 38 states and counting!

This 10-part biography series brings economics to life through the people behind the ideas—both good and bad. Students in 6th grade and up should understand why some economies flourish while others fail.

PRAGERU NOW IN 12 STATES AND COUNTING

PragerU is an approved supplemental resource for educators in 12 states and counting. Our free content aligns with state standards while teaching the truth about American history, civics, character building, financial literacy, and more.

Educators can now access free, turnkey content to meet their students' needs. We equip educators everywhere with resources they can easily use to shape what happens in their classrooms.

We even create what's called a "crosswalk" to map a state's education standards directly to PragerU content.

And since our content is free and available to anyone with an internet connection, PragerU is in even more classrooms across the country beyond 12 states where we're "approved." We're even in California, where we're working with parents and educators who want content they can trust—and students actually enjoy.

A RELIGIOUS REVIVAL

The Ten Commandments helped shape Western civilization, and PragerU is making sure the next generation knows them. Our illustrated children's book, The 10 Commandments, introduces readers from pre-K through 2nd grade to God's moral truth. For older students, Dennis Prager's video series explores each commandment in short lessons. To help put the commandments back on school walls, PragerU also offers a free printable poster, including a version for Texas classrooms.

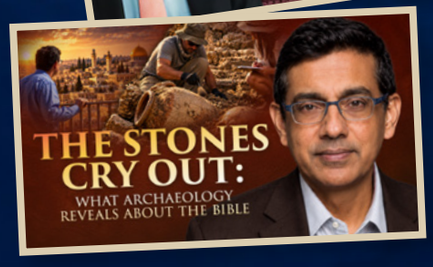

TheoLOGICal

Young people everywhere are searching for meaning. Shabbos Kestenbaum explores life's biggest questions—faith, morality, and purpose—with Jewish, Christian, and other religious leaders.

Biblical History with Dinesh D'Souza

Students are too often taught the Bible is a myth—if the Bible is taught at all. In The Stones Cry Out, a 12-part series created with filmmaker Dinesh D'Souza and the City of David Foundation, D'Souza explores archaeological discoveries from the patriarchs to the early Christian movement. And in The Book of Revelation and the Great Revival, a short PragerU documentary, D'Souza asks: Was October 7, 2023, foretold in the Bible?

American Recovery: Aaron Prager

Aaron Prager sits down with guests who have fought their way back from addiction, trauma, and personal struggles. Each conversation offers an honest and hopeful look at the road to healing.

The Rational Bible and If There Is No God

In The Rational Bible, his bestselling verse-by-verse commentary on the first five books of the Bible, Dennis Prager reveals the reason and timeless wisdom at their core. Genesis, Exodus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy are already available. Leviticus, the final volume, is coming soon.

In his New York Times bestseller If There Is No God: The Battle Over Who Defines Good and Evil, Dennis Prager argues a society without objective morality will slide into chaos. He takes on hard questions, including why God allows the innocent to suffer.

ALLEN ESTRIN

Co-Founder & Executive Director of PragerU

No organization can succeed without effective leadership. No one would dispute that statement.

But what does leadership mean? What are its distinctive qualities?

I can identify several: vision, courage, clarity.

There are many other qualities I could list, but I have to mention one more: morality.

Dennis Prager embodies these qualities and always has. We built PragerU around him.

When he suffered a terrible fall in November of 2024, we temporarily lost his leadership. And, based on the severity of the injury, we didn't know when we'd get Dennis back.

We never had any doubt we could operate PragerU without Dennis. From the beginning of PragerU, Dennis was never involved in the day-to-day operations. That was by design. Dennis has his fingers in many pies: his radio show, books, lectures, and hobbies.

But his wisdom, vision, courage, clarity, and morality were always there for us in a crisis. And as those of you who have ever run a business know, there's always a crisis around the corner.

Fortunately, we have a lot of friends. People we have worked with and trust, who share our values, people who embody the qualities of leadership I've just described.

We went to these people, asked them to help us—to join our Leadership Council. We asked if we could lean on them in times of crisis, to get their advice when we most needed it. Almost everyone we asked agreed. They all love Dennis, and they all admire PragerU.

They understand the importance of the mission. They helped us through that difficult first year following Dennis's accident, and they helped us through the second. They have, to use the vernacular, been there for us.

We are deeply grateful to them. Now, as Dennis makes steady progress in his recovery and returns more and more to his role as PragerU's lodestar, we continue to rely on them.

One more aspect of leadership is to know when to seek counsel and from whom.

Come what may, PragerU remains rock solid—be assured.

With gratitude,

Allen Estrin

EDUCATING LEGAL REFUGEES

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Refugee Resettlement asked PragerU to help legal refugees learn what it means to be American. Each new legal refugee is provided a welcome bag including a tablet loaded with PragerU content, PragerU books, and more.

COMPETE AGAINST PBS, TAXPAYER-FUNDED EDUCATIONAL BROADCASTING? "~~IMPOSSIBLE!~~"

Why AI?

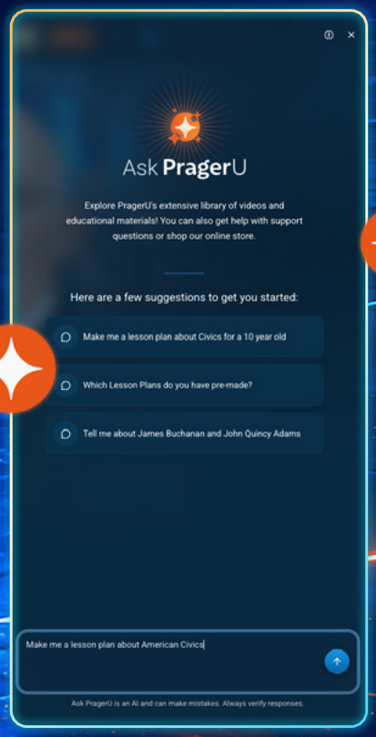

Technology is itself morally neutral. A tool does not have the capacity to discern good from evil—but the human being wielding it does. There are plenty of scenarios imagined about artificial intelligence that involve the end of mankind. But not enough people are lifting their heads to the horizon and imagining the "impossible." Artificial intelligence actually empowers human beings to be more human. It's been said "technological innovation can represent human participation in the divine act of creation." We, the created, are ourselves called to create. And artificial intelligence is one powerful tool students of all ages can use to learn and to create and to flourish. There's nothing artificial about that.

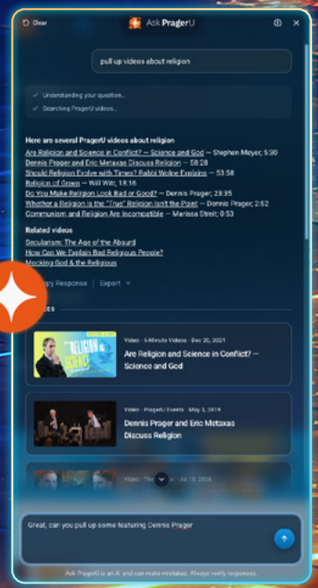

Meet our Chatbot

"Ask PragerU" puts our massive library at your fingertips. Ask a question about American history, for instance, and our chatbot will point you to the relevant videos and materials from which to learn. Parents and teachers can request a lesson plan, such as civics for a 10-year-old, or browse our ready-made ones. "Ask PragerU" also answers support questions and helps with our online store. It's a new, groundbreaking way PragerU is meeting people where they are.

PublicTV | A NEW POSSIBILITY

Create a learning journey for me

HOW IS PRAGERU PROVIDING AN ALTERNATIVE TO TAXPAYER-FUNDED PBS?

American families have long trusted PBS for wholesome educational content—think Sesame Street. But PBS too often airs woke content. More and more Americans are now seeing the politicized, harmful messages in this revered, taxpayer-funded broadcaster on which millions of parents and educators rely.

PBS is rapidly losing its audience, and PragerU is here to serve all learners who are searching for an alternative. We're building an "impossible" alternative education platform. PublicTV.com will serve students of all ages across all 50 states.

PublicTV WILL HAVE THREE MAJOR COMPONENTS

1. BUILD A REPOSITORY OF TRUTH. AND PUT IT IN PARENTS' HANDS

We're building our own AI chatbot—a trusted repository of educational content drawn from PragerU's vast library and from vetted partners. Ask PublicTV for help teaching a moment in American history or a question about financial literacy. PublicTV will then give instant, personalized access to trusted, relevant content.

Imagine a parent asks: "Help me teach civics to my eight-year-old in Iowa." The chatbot then recommends age-appropriate PragerU shows, books, and can even create lesson plans aligned with Iowa standards. Teachers could do the same for a classroom—or an entire district.

2. BUILD PLATFORMS FOR ALL 50 STATES

Every state sets its own academic standards and priorities. PublicTV will give parents and educators a crystal-clear roadmap of what students need to know in their state—and fill any gaps with what they should also learn.

Documents in education-speak known as "crosswalks" will map each state's standards to match PragerU shows, books, and more. Each state's platform will also link to a national hub to empower parents with unprecedented transparency into their children's education—and equip them with the tools to take it back.

3. PERSONALIZE FUN, RELEVANT LEARNING EXPERIENCES.

Great content is at the heart of everything we do.

This new technology is helping us create exceptional content that once took years to produce—so we can "do good" with technology sooner.

Students of all ages can ask PublicTV for help learning about any topic, and PragerU's new technology will generate exciting, customized learning journeys. Each learning journey will also be aligned with what's relevant where you live.

PublicTV will put all you need to know at your fingertips. Learning has always been—and always will be—personal. PublicTV makes it so—taking education back from the government, from teachers' unions, from book publishers. PublicTV puts you in the driver's seat of your own learning journey.

PublicTV is the most transformative and revolutionary educational project in PragerU's history—and it's only possible because of your generosity.

PRAGERU DONORS LIKE YOU ARE THE REASON WE'RE DOING THE IMPOSSIBLE

Nearly 70% of the gifts fueling PragerU's mission come from members of our Donor Clubs. These supporters give $1,000 or more annually to help accomplish what others thought impossible. While we offer benefits and experiences at every level, what really matters is the impact of their generosity. Here are just a few examples:

> "You are now the only 'university' to which I donate."

> — PragerU Donor

$1,500 Brings a PragerU Book Fair to a school, putting wholesome, patriotic books into children's hands and challenging woke education giants like Scholastic.

$5,000 Generates 250,000 targeted video views, teaching young Americans the truth about their country and inspiring pride and gratitude for its blessings.

$10,000 Helps produce an engaging kids' cartoon showing how capitalism creates opportunity, lifts people out of poverty, and improves lives.

$25,000 Generates 1,250,000 views, bringing young people closer to God through the timeless truths and moral wisdom of the Bible.

$50,000 Underwrites a viral 5-Minute Video that changes 70% of minds on issues ranging from free speech and free markets to getting married and having a family.

$250,000 Helps produce a powerful new short documentary exposing the evils of socialism and equipping young Americans to defeat its threat to our beloved American way of life.

$500,000 Funds a massive social media campaign, reaching tens of millions of young people in a single day with the Judeo-Christian values they so desperately need.

$1,000,000+ Our Angel Donors fuel the bold ideas, research, and innovation that allow PragerU to launch groundbreaking projects, transform American education, and compete against the vastly better-funded left.
